KING EDWARD'S FUNERAL GREATEST EVER

LONDON, May 12.—From two to three thousand dollars is the price of the use of a single room in the fashionable quarters to obtain a view of the funeral of King Edward. The funeral pageant will be the most elaborate in history, and from all over the world people are hastening to London in order to witness it. There have been so many inquiries for seats in windows which command a view of the streets through which the funeral will pass that a further advance in prices is predicted.

Seats on the street along the line of march are selling at fifty dollars each. Thousands are being disposed of at this price. People able to pay more, and hoping to have the comfort of a private apartment, are discovering that it will cost them possibly three thousand dollars for the brief experience of watching the funeral go by. Sales at these figures are not numerous, but those who have the rooms are holding out, expecting that as the number of visitors increases, their opportunity will come.

The funeral is to take place on May 20.

MANY DUMPED INTO SALT LAKE.

SALT LAKE CITY, May 12.—A hundred persons were precipitated into the Great Salt Lake tonight by the collapsing of a stairway of the Saltair Hippodrome. The stairway, which is above the lake, was crowded with people visiting the hippodrome, and gave way under their weight. Their rescue from the waters of the lake was an easy matter, its great density preventing any from sinking, and not a single life was lost. A dozen were hurt in the collapsing of the stairway.

AUGUSTUS HEINZE CLEARED.

NEW YORK, May 12.—Augustus Heinze, the wealthy banker whose indictment and arrest shortly after the great panic caused a national sensation, was acquitted today on all charges of misapplication of the funds of the Mercantile National Bank, while he was its president. He was also completely cleared of the charge of over-certification of checks drawn upon his brother's firm, the Otto Heinze company.

SOUTH AMERICANS WILL FIGHT SOON.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 12.—Advises received here are to the effect that a collision between the armies of Ecuador and Peru is imminent. Both countries are continuing feverish preparations for hostilities, and news of an engagement is expected here at any time. A very bloody conflict is anticipated if hostilities start.

ALL NATIONS WILL FLY AT NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, May 12.—The New York Aero Club has decided to hold an international aviation meet at Hempstead, Long Island. It is expected that representatives of all nations will gather to compete for the prizes to be offered, and that there will be the biggest showing yet made of aerial navigation.

TRAIN ROBBERS ARE CAUGHT.

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 12.—The bandits who held up a Southern Pacific train near here on Wednesday have been captured. The posers which were out hunting them found them in Casagrande, and arrested them without a battle.

SHARP SHOCKS IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

SAN BERNARDINO, Cal., May 12.—A sharp earthquake shock was felt here at 10:30 tonight. No damage was done. The shock was felt in a number of other cities, and caused some alarm.

EIGHT STUDENTS DROWNED.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., May 12.—Eight students were drowned here tonight by the sinking of a rowboat.

LEAH KLESHNA LEADING PLAY OF SEASON

It is difficult to believe that the author of the thrilling drama presented at the Opera House last evening is the writer who under the pseudonym of Hugh Morton, wrote "The Belle of New York," and "The Girl From Up There." C. M. S. McClellan, the most brilliant, bitter and cynical journalist in New York offered his play to a half dozen managers only to meet with a refusal until Mrs. Fiske saw its possibilities and on December 12, 1904, produced it at the Manhattan Theater and made an instantaneous hit. The play loses none of its virility in the production by the McRae Company and the players were carefully selected. Miss Oswald, in the title role, excelled all her previous work and while her's was not a star part, scored an artistic triumph. Louis Morrison was Leah's father, thief, blackguard and hero, all in one; James Dillon was Paul Sylvaine, politician and philanthropist; George Webb was the young degenerate brother of the girl Sylvaine was to marry and a perfect picture of a scoundrelly rascal. As Kleschna's valet and accomplice, Griffith Wray presented in his sullen, hopeless love for Leah a clever character study. The first curtain fell upon an audience who knew they had a treat before them. The most thrilling climax is in the second act, when Leah says, "Here we stand a gentleman, a blackguard and a thief, and I'm the thief." The harrowing fears and doubts of Kleschna and Schram as they wait for Leah's return, the fright and agony of young Berton when he offers to share his spoils with the older thief and the thrilling scene between father and daughter where Leah finally cuts herself free from all of them are the most tense and artistic episodes of the play. In another respect the drama is more true to life than the average piece. Characters appear, such as Miss Hudson's clever French impersonation and her sweetheart, played by Chas. Royal—and disappear forever. Kleschna and young Berton fall into oblivion before the piece is over. Of all the plays presented by the McRae Company this is the one most worth seeing.

The cast is as follows:
Paul Sylvaine (A member of the Chamber of Deputies) James Dillon
Kleschna (An Austrian criminal, known as Monsieur Garbler) Louis Morrison
Schram (His pal, acting as a servant) Griffith Wray
Geoff. Berton (of the French Army) Ivan Miller
Raoul Berton (His son) George Webb
Valentine Favre (A young journalist) Chas. Royal
Anton Paff (A young peasant) Geo. Dixon
Johann (An old peasant) Ed. Salter
Reichmann (A farmer) Fraak Howe
Baptiste (A valet de chambre) Henry Alexander
Madame Berton (Wife of Geoff. Berton) Louise Melrose
Claire (Her daughter) Edith Elliott
Sophie Chaponniers (Valentine's sweetheart) Laura Hudson
Frieda (A peasant girl) Mignie Rhodes
Charlotte (An old peasant woman) Blanche Lums
Leah (Daughter of Kleschna) Margaret Oswald

PARK THEATER.

"The Heron of Mafeking" one of Selig's best military films, will be the feature film at the Park tonight. It is full of thrilling battle scenes and an attack on an armored train. There will also be a good western picture and some good comedies. Harris and Vernon, although having been here six weeks, are going better than any team in town and it is not to be wondered at for their dancing is nothing short of marvelous. Tonight and tomorrow night Mr. Harris, by request, will sing his famous Stuttering Song. It is with regret that Mr. Congdon announces that this will be the last chance to see this clever team, as they sail on the Sierra.

NOVELTY THEATER.

McGrath and Page, vaudeville favorite banjoists, arrived on the S. S. Sierra today for an engagement at the Novelty Theater. They open Monday, May 15, and will introduce their novelty banjo act, consisting of popular high class music and imitations on the one American instrument, "The Banjo." They also illustrate historical events of the Civil War in the uniform dress of 1861, playing the appropriate music. This is an act that will appeal to all.
